Earth Science has been making natural body care products for over 25 years, and have always been guided by one principle, to try our hardest to make something special. Earth Science is a business, but it is much more than that to us. This is our creation, our craft, our profession, and we care deeply about what we do. With every product we formulate, we set out to make something that will work better than anything else out there, and then we price it fairly. We never compromise on quality.

Times change, tastes change and we change with them. However, one thing never changes: We are always motivated to make the best products, using the finest, most effective, natural ingredients.
